

Government Refuses Relief Applications

Medical Report Reveals Water Pure; Erection of Advertising Sign Refused.

A regular meeting of the council was held on Tuesday evening. Present Mayor Antrobus, Councilors Abousaif, Atkinson, Baltho, Ford, Jenkins and Kerr.

Two letters were received from the provincial government refusing responsibility in the relief applications of Mrs. V. Danyluk and daughter and Mr. Sam Malanchuk. The government stated various reasons for its attitude. Council will forward letters to the government pointing out in the case of Mrs. Danyluk and daughter that no work is available. It will also be pointed out that Mr. Malanchuk is over 60 years and his case is not covered by a circular letter recently received from the government.

The relief cases of William Gardner and Mr. Gilds were held over for further investigation.

The request of Ironside & Park to erect an advertising sign above the door of their premises was refused. Council will encourage the erection of Neon signs but no other.

Dr. Claxton, medical health officer, submitted his monthly report. The town's drinking water is now pure. Colder weather was credited with this improvement. The report stated the same water contamination will result again with the warm weather next year and advised that a better filtering system be set up. 50 children had been vaccinated for small pox. Two cases of scarlet fever were reported on Willow drive, located outside the town limits.

Coleman Light & Water Co. advised council that it had received a report from the provincial sanitary engineer to the effect that Coleman drinking water was now pure.

Council recommended Mrs. Janek for old age pension.

Mrs. Mary Lucasek was granted her request for wood and coal.

Light service was granted Mrs. Depusak, relief recipient.

Signing authority of town papers was granted Mr. Ed. Bernard, who will take over the duties of secretary on Nov. 1.

At the close of the meeting the council as a body paid tribute to acting secretary Audrey Halliwell for her efficient and faithful service to her duties while employed as secretary-treasurer. Miss Halliwell thanked the council for their courtesy towards her. She retires from her position at the end of this month.

ALBERTA HOCKEY LEAGUE TO START NOVEMBER 16

November 16 has been set as the date for the gala opening of the Alberta senior hockey league. Calgary invades Edmonton, and Lethbridge travels to Calgary where they will oppose Turner Valley Oilers.

The league will be enlivened by spirited games between Alberta and Kootenay teams.

Already many Coleman people are servicing their cars in preparation for taking in many of the Lethbridge games.

Lions District Governor Attends Meeting

Evan Morgan Speaks on Mining; A. Wragg Gives Talk on Radio.

The supper-meeting of Coleman Lions Club was held on Tuesday evening with a distinguished guest, District Governor Tom Harkness, present. Evan Morgan, district mines inspector, was guest speaker.

Lion Jack Chalmers revealed the tentative set-up of the Charter night program to be held early in November. Several members were called upon to take part in the program.

Mr. Morgan was introduced by Chairman Dr. Rose, who chose for his subject "Coal Mining." He described mining as a dangerous occupation, due to falling rock, inflammable coal dust, gas, explosives, etc. Coal today was scientifically mined. There were the mine manager, superintendent, pit boss, fireboss, Class A miners and Class B as well as many other varied forms of occupation. Each of these men were specialists at their particular jobs. Many accidents were caused by thoughtlessness. It was the duty of the district mines inspector to see that coal was mined in the safest manner possible. He dealt with the Mines Act and quoted several clauses in it pertaining to the safety of the mine.

District Governor Harkness gave a brief talk on his trip to Cuba, where he attended the Lions International convention. At that time the Pan-American conference was in progress and he touched on his inspection of government buildings. He anticipates being in attendance at Coleman's charter night.

Lion Archie Wragg gave an interesting talk on radio which was listened to attentively.

The next meeting will be Charter night, which will be attended by members from other Lions clubs in the district and also by the ladies of the local Lions. An orchestra has been engaged and a good time is anticipated.

Freda Antrobus A Member of Sir Ernest MacMillan's Choir

Freda Antrobus has become a member of the Bloor Street United church choir under the direction of Sir Ernest MacMillan. This choir, together with other Toronto choirs, was heard over the CBC network from Maple Leaf Gardens on Saturday evening. The Gardens were jammed to capacity, 15,000 persons, to hear this musical festival. The festival was sponsored by the Toronto Star and proceeds were divided between four well-known war service organizations.

The most enjoyable feature of the program was the fact that several well-known and popular numbers were sung as well as a number of the classics. Many Coleman people listened in and have since expressed their enjoyment of the program.

There are 375 persons in Sir Ernest's choir and it is reported it will be heard over a radio hook-up from coast to coast in November.

Come to Macleod Friday and Saturday, November 1 and 2, for the Lions Club Carnival and Shetland Pony Derby. Lots of fun, thrills and merriment. You'll enjoy the outing and will have a good time while there.

Albert F. Short Promoted to Vice-President And Secretary of McGillivray And International Co.'s

Boards of Directors Held Meeting Here Last Week; Two New Directors Added to Boards.

Meetings of the Boards of Directors of McGillivray Creek Coal & Coke Co. Ltd. and International Coal & Coke Co. Ltd. were held at Coleman on Thursday, October 17.

Meetings were attended by President Lorne A. Campbell, of Trail, H. A. Howard, of Calgary, G. M. Warren, James Black, of Vancouver, Henry A. Thoeny, of Glenora, Minn., and W. M. Lindsay, of Kimberley, B.C.

Two new directors were added to the boards of each company, those being Mr. A. L. Johnson, of Trail, and Mr. A. F. Short, of Coleman.

The only change in the local officers was the election of A. F. Short, of Coleman, to the position of vice-president and secretary of both companies.

Following the meeting of directors of International and McGillivray Coal Companies last week, announcement was made of the elevation of Mr. Short to the office of vice-president, to fill the place on the directorate of the late Vice-president George Kellock.

The promotion comes to Mr. Short after a long term of faithful and efficient service with the company.

He entered the service of McGillivray Company in 1912, and in 1916 was appointed secretary. He carried on in that capacity till the joint management of McGillivray and International Companies was effected in 1935, when he was appointed secretary of both companies.

His local activities have included a keen interest in Coleman Canadian hockey club, being a member of the executive, and in fraternal circles he has been well served, as Mr. Short's service covers 28 years, during which time he has seen the companies develop to their present important status in the industrial life of Alberta.

Continuance of Present Working Conditions Bright

Hillcrest-Mohawk Mine Working Five Days Per Week; Local Mines Averaging Four A Week

Coleman mines, McGillivray Creek and International, and the Hillcrest-Mohawk Collieries located immediately east of Bellevue, continue to set the pace in working conditions in the Crow's Nest Pass.

The Coleman mines are working on an average of four days per week, while Mohawk, employing 230 men, is working five days per week. Enquiry from officials of these mines reveals that prospects for continuance of present conditions are bright.

In contrast to the above conditions Bellevue and Blairmore collieries are working approximately two days per week. To the small wage earner this amount of work proves insufficient.

A survey among Coleman business men reveals that fine working conditions during the past four years have added considerably to business improvement. Questioned, many expressed the opinion that business during 1940 was better than 1939. Christmas stocks are beginning to arrive in their stores and they confidently look forward to a good Christmas business.

During the past month or two young boys have been given employment in the local mines, replacing those who have enlisted. One official stated that there still remained a number of young men the companies could draw on.

WEDDINGS

VERSKOVY - KALIVODA

The marriage took place in the Holy Ghost Rectory on Saturday, October 12, of Mildred, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loui Kalivoda, of Coleman, to Mr. Andrew Verskovy, of Coleman. Attendants were Miss Hearnin-Geddes and Mr. Edward Rajman, both of Coleman. Rev. Father Leo Sullivan conducted the ceremony. The bridal couple will take up residence at West Coleman, the groom being employed at one of the local mines.

ALBERT F. SHORT

lyric and International Companies was effected in 1935, when he was appointed secretary of both companies.

His local activities have included a keen interest in Coleman Canadian hockey club, being a member of the executive, and in fraternal circles he has been well served, as Mr. Short's service covers 28 years, during which time he has seen the companies develop to their present important status in the industrial life of Alberta.

The elevation to office of vice-president is well merited and there is no doubt the companies will be well served, as Mr. Short's service covers 28 years, during which time he has seen the companies develop to their present important status in the industrial life of Alberta.

Red Cross Donations Most Disappointing

At the present time, after one week of canvassing, Coleman's contribution to the Canadian Red Cross, whose Dominion-wide objective is five millions dollars, is not going to be very large.

Key officials of the local organization report donations most disappointing. Canvassers on the job both last year and this, report their collections during the past week are far behind collections of last year. Norman E. MacAulay, treasurer, reports $680 was raised last year. $680 raised among a population of 5,000 to 6,000 people is woefully poor. Coleman's district takes in the east end of Blairmore road to the provincial boundary on the west.

This year the local organization is going to be hard pressed to even reach $680. Canvassers report that many people have refused donations on the ground that they gave liberally to the Ambulance fund. This may be true but these people must remember that the ambulances were in response to a hurried call from Great Britain whose need for such machines was most urgent.

The present Red Cross appeal is for funds to aid medical supplies, food, clothing, hospital equipment and a host of other requirements to war stricken Britain. The money is urgently needed, and as the war continues the Red Cross will be called on for more and more services and equipment. The Red Cross can only finance itself from public donations. Never was the need so great as at the present time. Donate generously. The campaign is still in progress. Donations will be received at The Journal office and forwarded to the local officials.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

Mrs. P. L. Rippon asks that all persons having finished sewing articles for the Red Cross turn them in to Red Cross officials at the council chamber on Tuesday afternoon. It is especially important to have these goods turned in next week as a parcel will be made up and forwarded to headquarters.

LETHBRIDGE MAPLE LEAFS ASK JOYCE TO ATTEND PRACTICES

Lethbridge Maple Leafs have asked Jimmy Joyce to attend their hockey practices which commenced this week. Jimmy is yet undecided whether or not to accept the invitation. The wrist injury suffered at Corbin at the start of the hockey season last year has now healed and he states it feels as easy as ever. He expected to leave for the coast on Wednesday on a business trip.

St. John Ambulance to Hold General Meeting on Sunday

Election of Officers and Review of Year's Activities Important Items of Business.

Coleman branch of St. John Ambulance Association will hold its annual meeting on Sunday in the council chamber at 11 a.m. Review of the past year's activities which culminated last week at a banquet when presentations of awards to successful students were made, will be the first item of business.

Election of officers will follow. A. McCulloch and J. M. Rushton have been president and secretary respectively for many years.

It will be fairly well known at this meeting just how many persons plan to attend the winter classes of which Drs. Claxton and Rose will be the medical instructors.

The question of funds will also be discussed. Funds are usually raised by a New Year's dance. Tickets are sold to practically every miner in Coleman. Added revenue is receiving by the door sale of tickets the night of the dance.

Secretary John Rushton extends a welcome to everyone interested to attend this meeting.

Desire to Start Column of Old Country News

Extracts From Letters Sought; Give Canadians An Insight Into Happenings at Home.

A brilliant suggestion was made to The Journal this week by a reader. She suggested that The Journal solicit from its readers extracts of letters received each week from the old country. These extracts would reveal the tragedy and humor in the lives of British citizens.

A column of this nature would be most interesting and educational, and readers receiving letters from Britain are asked to bring to The Journal office extracts from the letters which they think would be interesting to the general public.

In A Common Cause

With the gradual approach of the war towards the threshold of this Dominion, the importance of complete unity of the people of Canada and perfect accord and harmony between all governmental units, political parties and all classes and creeds, nationalities and groups is becoming daily more apparent.

This is very essential if this country is not to fall a victim to the first arm of aggression of the Nazi foe—propaganda designed to undermine morale and to create dissension, fear and a feeling of helplessness and hopelessness. This is the most dangerous of all the weapons employed by Hitler as the swift march of events in Europe has demonstrated only too well.

In every country which has been so far subjugated by the Hitler horde, the arch-enemy of democracy has utilized propaganda for his first onslaught against his potential victims. In his book Mein Kampf he has plainly told the world that that was to be his strategy and that is one promise that he has carried out to the letter, with dire results to those who might have withstood his legions, had they but heeded this warning.

The Hitlerian program is to first weaken his intended victims from within, literally to encourage and assist them with poisoned propaganda to pave the way for an easy walk over with bombers, tanks and all the other weapons of the Nazi war machine. To date the British alone have taken the sting out of this insidious, lethal weapon and have called Herr Hitler's bluff. Canadians, too, are made of sterner stuff than others who have succumbed to the poisoned wiles of German propaganda and can be relied upon to halt the foe on this slippery battlefield. If the people of this country unite to resist these first advances and rout the enemy on that ground there can be no doubt of the ultimate outcome of the more tangible phases of the conflict.

East-West Unity

There are those who, because of the complexity of the population of this country, feared that Hitler's agents might find Canada a fertile soil in which to sow the seeds of discord, fear and demoralization, but any such fear which might have been harbored by a few has been completely dispelled.

Perhaps never in the history of this country have the people of the Dominion been so united in a common cause as they are to-day—determined to root out all those who would espouse even a semblance of the horrible Nazi doctrines and to preserve intact for themselves and their posterity, the great heritage of freedom and liberty which many Canadians inherited from their birthright and which the great majority of the others came here to seek and to find.

In Western Canada, comprised as it is of many diverse nationalities, of many creeds, many races and many tongues, we find nothing but complete unity of purpose, an intense desire to sink all petty differences, an intense earnestness to bend every energy to the winning of this war to the end that those things which we value so highly may be conserved to us, our children and our children's children.

We have strong evidence that the same unity of purpose binds the Anglo-Saxon and the French constituents in Eastern Canada in a strong, well knit common bond of sympathy and understanding. Here is the testimony of Le Jour, powerful French language newspaper published in Montreal, the citadel of French-Canadian Quebec:

"About the war and the need to win it, French-language Canadians think just like all the rest of the country. About 85 per cent, are pro-British in the present crisis and about 95 per cent, are passionately anti-Nazi. Just give me a chance to poll public opinion," says the editor, "and I am sure that I could prove that these figures are not exaggerated."

In this comforting editorial, the editor of Le Jour cites "four striking assertions which show the attitude of mind of French-language Canadians: 1.—The complete failure of the theatrical Houdini thrust; 2.—Duplessis' defeat; 3.—The complete victory of the men responsible for our participation in the war; 4.—The perfect order which marked the three days of national registration.

"Isn't this enough proof for you?" continues Le Jour. "If not, go amongst the people and ask them reasonable questions, chat with our people, and you will see how the great glory of our era is shared by nearly three million French-language Canadians; who, since the downfall of France, more than ever feel the need to forget their childish bickerings of the past, so as to unite themselves with all the other defenders of our country that is now in danger, with that nationality which has nevertheless, respected our language and our traditions for the past 180 years and along with whom we hope to develop a free, prosperous and happy life."

Strong evidence, surely, that all Canadians are prepared to sink narrow differences and partisan strife. Let this spirit prevail from the Atlantic to the Pacific and Canada will give a good account of herself in this great fight, whether the struggle is brought to these shores or whether it is confined to the other side of the ocean.

Guards Were Doubled

When The Queen Visited Hospital Where Wounded Germans Were

Two wounded German airmen, prisoners of war in a British military hospital, had the surprise and the disappointment of their lives recently. In the morning their guards were doubled, and they thought the invasion had begun, reports the London Daily Sketch. Instead, later, they found the Queen had been visiting the hospital. She had passed through the next room to them, but it was not until after she had left that she learned how near she had been to the prisoners.

Send Greatest Men

Ambassadors To Other Countries From China Are Always Outstanding

The Chinese continue their practice of sending great men out as ambassadors; in the case of the present ambassador to the United States, Dr. Hu Shih, they have sent a man many regard as the greatest living Chinese philosopher. Along with being a scholar and diplomat he is something of a wit, which again is in keeping with the Chinese policy. One of the woman's magazines reprints an anecdote in point.

A great lady of Hawaii, inviting Hu Shih to dine, cabled him in her best Oriental manner. "Oh sage and honorable sir," the invitation began, "deign to honor our humble board, etc., etc." From first sonorous phrase to last, it ran 300 words. Hu Shih, then aboard ship bound for Honolulu, accepted with a will. He cabled a prompt reply. It read:

"This is in line with the Wellington Koo stories, of which the one most frequently told concerns Koo's appearance at a New York banquet. An important American, sitting near Koo, determined to befriend him. Leaning across the table, and speaking very distinctly, the American made the stranger at home by inquiring: 'Likee soup?' Koo smiled agreeably. An hour or so later, the toastmaster called on Koo for the address of the evening. The gifted gentleman from China made his speech, displaying beautiful English, and sat down to heavy applause. When it died out, Koo bent toward his new friend. 'Likee speech?' he asked."

More Band Music Suggested

Nothing Like It To Rouse Spirits Of The People

The Amherstburg Echo thinks what Canada needs is more band music. More stirring, patriotic band music on radios, in theatres and at community events. There is nothing like a band to rouse the spirits of the citizenry and as a wartime effort the people should be given the opportunity to hear marches and songs whenever possible. There are few people who do not get that piggy-wiggly feeling up and down their spine when a band passes on parade. Canadians will receive greater inspiration to patriotic endeavors when they hear a band, and so we would suggest more bands more often.

Canadian Minesweepers

Six More Have Been Ordered At Cost Of $3,600,000

Placing of a $3,600,000 order for six large steam-driven minesweepers for the Royal Canadian Navy was announced by Munitions Minister C. D. Howe.

The six vessels, costing close to $600,000 each, will be built by Canadian Vickers. They are the same type as those presently being constructed in Toronto and Vancouver.

Treatment Of Poles

Sent To Work In Germany Wearing A Distinguishing Badge

Himmler, as head of the Gestapo, is said to have ordered that all Poles who have been sent to work in Germany must wear a yellow badge bearing a large "P" in order to distinguish them from the "Herrenvolk" or master race of their German oppressors.

There is something childish as well as inhuman about such an order; it has the nastiness of a State of perverted arrested development. Anything less likely to be symptomatic of a true race of superior beings it would be hard to imagine; the whole idea is characteristically Nazi and therefore sub-human. A Pole with any pride (and the Poles are a proud race) would regard it as a complicity to be differentiated from a "Herrenvolk" which is capable of such sinister and abnormal twists of character.

Some day the decent German will have to disavow this and a good many other stains on the national reputation. In the absence of some such cleansing declaration the Germans themselves will be marked men, with or without a visible badge; no one will be able to look on them as normal members of the human race.—Manchester Guardian.

The World's History

When Life Began And The Advent Of Man

Life began, according to experts' estimates, about 1,200,000,000 years ago. Call that beginning midnight. Call the interval between then and now 12 hours, with 1940 representing high noon.

On that time basis, it wasn't until after 3 a.m. that the first vertebrates (backbone animals) came into existence, not until 9:30 that the dinosaurs showed up, not until 10:45 a.m. that the birds came, and not until 11:58 a.m., that prehistoric man arrived on the scene.

It was only a tenth of a second ago that the ancient Egyptians and Sumerians, first people of whom any record exists, made the first stab at organized society.—Minneapolis Star-Journal.

SELECTED RECIPES

ALL-BRAN CORN MEAL MUFFINS

3 tablespoons shortening
1/4 cup sugar
1 egg
1 cup milk
1 cup Kellogg's All-Bran
1/2 cup corn meal
1 1/2 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
4 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
Shorten and sugar thoroughly; add egg, beat until creamy. Add milk, All-Bran and corn meal. Let soak until most of moisture is taken up. Sift flour with salt and baking powder; add to first mixture and stir until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full and bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) about 30 minutes. Yield: 16 muffins (2 1/2 inches in diameter) or 12 muffins (3 inches in diameter).

ORANGE BLANC MANGE

5 tablespoons granulated sugar
4 tablespoons Durham corn starch
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 cups hot milk
1/2 teaspoon pure vanilla
1 cup orange juice
2 tablespoons grated orange rind
Combine sugar thoroughly with corn starch and salt. Stir in hot milk. Stir and cook in double boiler until mixture thickens smoothly. Cover mixture with occasional stirring, until no raw flavor remains. Remove from heat and stir in vanilla, orange juice and rind. Cool partially, then turn into steamed glasses and chill for serving. May be accompanied by cream, plain or whipped.

Note: For the softer, more delicate type of pudding, if oranges are sweet reduce corn starch to 3 tablespoons.

English Christmas Cards

Are Being Made This Year The Same As Usual

Christmas cards for 1940 will be available in England in as big a variety of design and price as usual, but next year they must not exceed three-fifths of an ounce in weight and 6d. in price, says the London Daily Sketch. This is the effect of the Ministry of Supply order which came into force recently. It does not mean that the manufacture of greeting cards is to be banned. Erroneous interpretation of the order had created considerable alarm in mid-Lancashire, biggest centre of Christmas card production in the country. "To cope with this season's order members of my Association have already made more than 10,000,000 personal cards and produced more than 100,000 sample books, which alone have cost £29,000," Mr. J. Hodgson Clarkson, honorary secretary of the Mid-Lancashire Christmas Card Manufacturers' Association, states.

Historic Guns Saved

Returned To Nelson's Ship When King George Intervened

The London correspondent of the Ottawa Journal says:

I hear that we owe it to the intervention of King George himself that the historic guns on the old "Victory" have been saved from the scrap heap. They had been earmarked by the Ministry of Supply to be broken up for munitions, but happily were saved at the last moment, and returned to Nelson's grand old vessel at Portsmouth.

No one complains when guns brought home as trophies from the last war are utilized for this purpose, for they are ugly monstrosities in any market square. But there is still plenty of old iron that Lord Beaverbrook can requisition, without pouncing on cannon that link us up with the story of Trafalgar.

While the black-out continues, London can well dispense with its lamp-posts.

Joint Measures Taken To Ensure Protection Of Our Coast Lines

Ottawa.—Canada and the United States must co-operate in making secure the "eastern and western doors of North America to prevent our being surprised by the international gangster and to keep him out," Col. O. M. Biggar said.

The chairman of the Canadian section of the joint permanent defence board set up by Canada and the United States was speaking on the weekly "Let's Face the Facts" program arranged by G. H. Lash, director of public information. The address was broadcast over a national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

"It is the task of the permanent joint board on defence to consider how the material available for both chains in the two countries can best be used, and to make recommendations to the two governments accordingly," he said.

Col. Biggar said there is no question of the occupation of bases in Canada by United States defence forces or any movement of such forces into Canada "until an emergency makes their presence necessary."

Activities of the board had made it possible to strengthen in some degree the support and assistance Canada is providing to Great Britain.

"Once joint measures of defence have been agreed upon Canada will know that she will not be left alone even for a day to resist an attack upon her coasts," he said.

Col. Biggar said that if the war is finally won in Europe, "we in North America need not worry for a long time about an attack on this continent. But, he said, until victory has been won such an attack is possible, and "no government can ignore the chance of its being lost."

"However small that chance may be, a government would be neglecting its duty if it failed to think about what should be done in that event," he said.

Few persons had formed an accurate picture of the geography of North America in relation to Europe.

Speed Plane Production

645 Made Available For Canada In Recent Months

Ottawa.—A total of 645 airplanes of various types have been made available for Canadian use in the past three months, Munitions Minister Howe made known in a statement. He excluded production of Canadian Associated Aircraft Limited from his figures.

The minister's summary on planes for the three months period ended Sept. 30 follows: Planes built in Canada, 272; planes assembled in Canadian plants, 176; planes assembled by the Royal Canadian Air Force, 138; planes delivered from the United States, 59.

The minister's statement said employment in the Canadian aircraft industry now totals about 11,000 persons, an increase of about 40 per cent during the last three months.

A $3,000,000 plant extension program is under way to provide for the growing production of aircraft used in the British Commonwealth air training plan and plans are being prepared to use plants at a cost of $2,500,000 for the construction and overhaul of planes.

Airplane orders placed for Canadian account in the past three months have totalled more than $35,000,000, the minister's statement said.

Orders already have been placed in Canada for propellers and instruments not previously made in the Dominion and plans are under way for manufacture of airplane engines in the Dominion.

German Losses Heavy

Royal Air Force Pounding Military Objectives In France

London.—German losses at Cherbourg as a result of Royal Air Force raids are estimated at between 40,000 and 50,000 wounded, according to a despatch from Madrid to the Daily Express.

The despatch said its source of information was neutral observers reaching Madrid, and added that "almost every civil military hospital from the Belgian to the Spanish frontier has been requisitioned."

Reliable sources in London said it was impossible to estimate the casualties but remarked, "Of course the R.A.F. has been pounding military objectives in the invasion ports heavily, including the bombing of troop trains."

Reach Agreement

All Elevators Cut Track And Street Spread For Crop Year

Winnipeg.—Canadian Wheat Board announced it had reached a general agreement for the crop year 1940-41 with the Northwest Line Elevators' Association, the wheat pools and the United Grain Growers, Limited, reducing the spread between track and street prices by one-half cent per bushel.

The announcement followed similar statements by the wheat pools in the three prairie provinces and the Northwest Line Elevators' Association regarding the reduction.

The three groups have agreed to make the price change retroactive to August 1.

German Freighters Sold

Three Interned Vessels Sold To An Argentine Concern

Buenos Aires.—Three German freighters which have taken refuge in Buenos Aires since early in the war have been sold by the North German Lloyd Company to a newly-organized Argentine concern, the Compania Argentina de Navegacion Lloyd Argentino.

The sale was made under conditions that the ships remain idle until the war is over.

They are the Lahn, 8,498 tons; the Anatolia, 2,446 tons, and the Nienburg, 4,154 tons.

A price equivalent to $1,400,000 was paid.

British sources, asked how the transaction would affect the ships, said they would be seized or sunk if they ventured out of neutral territorial waters.

They added that the deal gave Germany some 7,000,000 pesos to be used for propaganda and other purposes in Argentina.

It is not known what will happen to the German crews.

Capture Nazi Prisoners

Two Germans Who Escaped From Newfoundland Internment Camp Are Caught

St. John's, Nfld.—Two German prisoners who escaped from an internment camp were captured.

A rabbit hunter saw the two men in an empty shack in the woods near here and notified police. The pair were promptly rounded up by officers without difficulty.

The prisoners, Capt. Wilhelm Jostling and Ernest Munch, were interned when their German ship, the Christophorus Durum, was seized here shortly after the outbreak of war.

Grace For Wartime

Lord Woolton, Minister Of Food, Offers New Supplication

London.—Lord Woolton, minister of food, offered a new grace at the national defence committee luncheon.

"By the Grace of God and the vigilance of the Royal Navy, the courage of the mercantile marine, the devotion of dock labourers and transport workers and food traders, and the patient efforts of farmers, these good things have been brought to our table, and for these benefits we thank God."

Air Marshal Bishop Says Air Training Plan Vital Aid For Victory

Montreal.—Air Marshal W. A. Bishop said that as a result of his recent visit to Britain he is "still further convinced that England shall stand," and that the empire after the war will be "a greater, more vital, more decisive factor in world history than it ever has before."

Air Marshal Bishop, director of recruiting for the Royal Canadian Air Force, addressed a dinner meeting of service clubs. His speech was broadcast over a national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

"It is only outside that fortress island that doubt ever arises, 'Can England hold out?'" Air Marshal Bishop said. "There is no such doubt in the mind of anyone there."

He told of a conversation with a woman who lived on the English coast. Her only desire seemed to be that if Hitler did try an invasion he would choose her particular bit of the coast for his venture.

"We are ready and waiting for him," she said. "He don't half know what we'll do to him!"

The air marshal said Britons were counting on the empire, knowing that "we are with them through and through." They were counting especially on airmen trained in Canada to hold off the German air force.

"Twenty-five years ago we had difficult and unequal fighting in the skies, but 22 years ago we drove the pirate Huns out of the skies of Europe," he said. "We did it then and we will do it again."

The air marshal played a big part in fighting in the last war. He was awarded the Victoria Cross, and at the end of the war was credited with 170 air battles in which he destroyed 72 enemy planes.

"The empire is on the march. We are all together, and as the months roll by trained pilots and aircrews in their thousands will proceed to the other side to do once again what their forebears did before."

Air Marshal Bishop said it was his "definite and sincere belief" that the British Commonwealth air training plan might prove to be the most vital factor in attaining victory.

"There is no question in my mind," he continued. "Germany will not be able to produce the quality of air fighting Britain is offering, or $40,000,000, personnel capable of meeting with-

Vice-Admiral Tovey To Command The British Home Fleet

London.—Vice-Admiral John C. Tovey, one of the youngest admirals in the royal navy, was appointed to the supreme command of the home fleet. He succeeds Admiral of the Fleet Sir Charles M. Forbes.

The admiralty announced at the same time that Sir Henry Harwood, hero of the battle of the River Plate, had been appointed lord commissioner of the admiralty and an assistant chief of the naval staff.

Successor Vice-Admiral Sir Geoffrey Blake, who has been selected for a "special duty" at the admiralty.

Appointment of 55-year-old "Jack" Tovey to be commander-in-chief of the home fleet was treated as a highly significant event by London's morning papers.

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express carried the streamer: "Sensational Home Fleet Change: Man of 55 Placed in Command: Unknown Admirals Get Busy Job."

The Daily Mail described the appointment to the key post an "expert on destroyers and almost unknown to the public" as a surprise.

Indicating little is known about "Jack" Tovey is the fact his biography occupies only nine lines in Who's Who, and lists him as commanding destroyer flotillas in the Mediterranean fleet since 1933.

Sir Henry Harwood's appointment takes effect next Dec. 2 shortly before the first anniversary of the historic battle in which he commanded the squadron of three light cruisers which shelled the Graf Spee into Montevideo harbor, where she later was scuttled. Sir Henry will co-operate with the first sea lord in implementing naval strategy and operations.

The Daily Express intimated that appointment of Vice-Admiral Tovey to the high post foreshadowed intensification of the sea war.

After the first Great War he commanded the sixth and eighth flotillas in the Atlantic fleet prior to his Chatham appointment.

Imperial Government Will Carry On At The Nation's Capital

London.—The government is staying in London, informed parliamentary sources reiterated, and is not yet ready to order compulsory evacuation of the capital.

The same sources, however, conveyed anew the government's desire that "the more people who can leave London without interfering with their business the better" and in the House of Commons, the minister of health disclosed an "omnino increase" in the wartime spread of cerebro-spinal fever.

Malcolm MacDonald, the minister, said gravely that this "should make us pause in contemplation of the coming winter."

Cerebro-spinal fever is cerebro-spinal meningitis, also called camp fever. It has been a common military disease. The precise cause of its rise in wartime is not known, but it is presumed to come from crowding, such as in air raid shelters and in other intimate contact. The disease is attributed to an organism in the nose and throat, presumed to be airborne.)

No reason was given for the semi-official reiteration of the government's determination to stay in London. The parliamentary correspondent of Reuters News Agency merely wrote: "This is no question of the government leaving London. On the contrary, they intend to stay here."

He added: "There is no question of any compulsory evacuation at present."

Mr. MacDonald also disclosed that about 489,000 school children, slightly more than half the school population, now are out of London, and that 500 expectant mothers are leaving the city every week.

"Despite the strenuous and wanton efforts of German airmen," he added, "only some 5,500 beds in hospital wards have been filled by air-raid casualties."

Vernon Bartlett, News Chronicle commentator and member of parliament, said that "one of the stranger statements of the German radio of the last few days is to the effect for- gured embassies and legations have urged the British government to move the foreign office from London to London Inferno."

"No such request as far as I can discover has been received from any diplomatic mission in this city," Mr. Bartlett added.

The Times approved the suggestion of Lord Horder, noted surgeon and physician-in-ordinary to the King, that "a system of relief akin to that applied to troops in the line should be organized for those continuously subject to the danger and noise of aerial bombardment."

"Our lives cannot be run on peace-time lines nor by any mere adaptation of the peacetime authorities," the newspaper declared in an editorial analyzing air raid defenses.

Commenting on "certain hygienic and administrative deductions to be made from the results of air raids," The Times said: "The course of the German air offensive, which continues to concentrate mainly on London, shows that these questions are becoming more and more urgent."

"The enemy's tactics are clearly continuity of attack, varying in intensity but never wholly relaxed, except when the weather makes attack impossible." The Times continued, "and such weather has been and will be rare. Both active and passive defenses are ceaselessly under review; and it would be wholly wrong to suppose that the main problems of defence—namely interception of aircraft by night continued, and the effects of indiscriminate bombing—were only seriously tackled after the beginning of the German air offensive."

"No one will feel inclined to blame Royal Air Force night squadrons or anti-aircraft batteries or the balloon barrage for having failed so far—just as the Germans have failed in spite of their longer preparations—to ward off night attack."

NOTES AND COMMENTS

LETTERS from people in London and other parts of the British Isles which have suffered from German air raids convey in graphic language not only the experiences of a brave people, but their determination to see it through, no matter what the cost may be. One magazine article told of a young married couple whose home was demolished, turning in with a will to help clear away the debris to reach their baby, whose faint cry could be heard. With torn and bleeding hands they worked away, only to find their baby had died. This is just one of the thousands of tragic experiences which the people of Britain are suffering, but it only serves to steel them against a murderous foe. It should arouse a responsive chord in the hearts of peoples of all Democratic countries, and particularly in our own Canada, to give all the assistance we can through the Red Cross and other organizations which have as their objective the relief of the sufferers in Great Britain. The government of Great Britain took up the challenge of Totalitarianism against Democracy when Germany invaded Poland over a year ago. It had Allies at that time, including Holland, Norway, Denmark, Belgium and France. They have all fallen under the German onslaught, while Britain fights on alone defending not only its own cause and the right to live under the form of government it chooses, but to restore to those countries now under German domination, the liberty they formerly enjoyed.

PRIME Minister Churchill maintains the morale of the British people by his leadership. The broadcast he made on Monday, particularly its message to the people of France, was inspirational in its dogged determination to fight on till air supremacy is attained and the vengeance of a righteous cause is visited on Hitler and all that he stands for. As Mr. Churchill so forcibly said: "Britons only seek to beat the life and soul out of Hitler." There must be millions of people throughout the world who will echo these words, for never has one man been so guilty of blood lust and atrocity in its most diabolical form than the dictator of Germany.

THOUGH there are many generous donors to the various war charities appeals, some are very lax in what is really a strong moral obligation to those who are fighting and those civilians who are enduring the brunt of the Battle of Britain. To make this plain, the following is taken from the editorial columns of the Canadian Statesman, published in Bowmanville, Ontario.

"WE have seen extracts from a letter sent back to Canada by a soldier, formerly at Camp Borden, now on duty in England. He tells that when at Borden, the soldiers tried to raise $3000 among the three thousand civilian workmen in the camp toward buying a Spitfire fighter for airmen overseas.

"Workmen were receiving 90c an hour and at $1.00 apiece the amount could have been raised. The final net was around $700, after much grumbling among many and refusal of nickles and dimes, so the letter states.

"Now that he has been in the conflict himself and has seen the dreadful wreckage, the wounded and exhausted men of the air force, the great need for more Spitfires, he has some bitter things to say concerning some of our mercenary workmen in Canada.

"There is probably much truth in what he writes and there should be complete understanding of the moods of men who have offered their lives at a pay rate of $1.30 per day when civil wages rate as much as 90c an hour.

"His concluding remarks are an indictment that ought to compel us to take steps toward a better understanding between labor and our growing military forces.

"In Britain, it is labor that carries the weight of warfare, cheerfully yet resolutely and two labor representatives hold outstanding portfolios in the government of the day.

"Here is opportunity for a public-relations expert operating under direct government action."

POLITICAL parties in this province in opposition to the provincial government have not attempted to stir up public feeling by party controversy, while the Dominion with the rest of the Empire is engaged in a life and death struggle, yet the powers in authority at Edmonton continue sniping tactics which instead of serving the public interest, are detrimental to the national effort, and are employed solely for political advantage. It is time to call a halt to such tactics, but there is little prospect of any change in conduct of this nature judging from the record of the past five years. We need above all else a United Canada. If Canadians were getting a touch of the experiences of the people of Britain, and London in particular, the necessity of standing solidly together on war policy would be most forcibly impressed.

Around The Town

A PORTION of Main street has an appearance reminding one of a man with a couple of front teeth knocked out in a fight. This changed appearance comes from an effort to improve the Grand Union Hotel. The buildings that have been demolished, which adjoined the hotel, were probably among the oldest in town. Many a game of pool and snooker has been played in those grimy halls, and in later years a couple of bowling alleys helped to enliven the night life of the place. These sounds of revelry will no longer be heard in that particular spot, for the now vacant land will be used as a parking space for hotel patrons. It is rumored that among the "improvements" there will be a ladies beverage room and maybe a lunch counter or cafe, as part of the hotel accommodation.

The former dining room, which has been the place of assembly for many a happy dinner and smoker, in which many of our town celebrities have delivered themselves of ponderous speeches or mere twaddle, disappears to be replaced by the improvements. The tables and chairs are now enshrined in dust, mite reminders of what has been, awaiting the day when they will again be polished and put to use in a new environment. So-time marches on! The old gives place to the new.

Theatre Notes

"Broadway Melody of 1940" starring Fred Astaire and Eleanor Powell highlights the week-end program at the Palace. The tap dancing of these two top-flight stars keeps the picture in high gear. Song hits include "Between You and Me," "Begin the Beguine" and several others. The story is based on the show business as Fred Astaire, hungry for real recognition of his dancing talent in order to get into the "big-time" finally comes into his own. Circumstances compel him to team up with Miss Powell when her dancing partner lets her down due to drink. In this film little publicity has been given to three "bit" players. One young lady gives a juggling and balance act. Her sense of balance is phenomenal and justly deserves the two or three minutes given to her in the film. Another "bit" player gives her version of comic opera and she is really good. The third artist is only on the screen a matter of seconds when he appears riding a one-wheel bike and crashes into the orchestra pit.

At Cole's theatre, Bellevue, Greta Garbo, comes to Pass patrons after a long absence. She plays the lead in "Ninotchka." Melvyn Douglas plays the male lead. This film is said to be Garbo's gayest.

"FRENCHY" ASKS FOR THE JOURNAL

Soldiers, like all human beings, long to hear about the old home town. This has been illustrated many times since the Coleman boys packed their kits and set out to meet Herr Hitler. This week a letter was received from Frenchy Marconi, stationed at Ottawa, asking if The Journal could be sent on to him.

Here is his letter:
"Just dropped a line to say hello and ask if you would kindly send me a copy of your paper every week. I sure miss the news about town out here and would be very grateful to you if you sent me The Journal. —Frenchy Marconi."

HIRSCH BOYS APPRECIATE THE JOURNAL

The Journal is in receipt of a nice letter from the Hirsch brothers, of the Edmonton Fusiliers. Here is what they say:
"Just a line to say that my brother and I have certainly appreciated the paper and read it over and over. It is also read by boys from other parts of the country. The boys all send their regards. —Signed, Pte. H. F. Hirsch and Pte. O. H. Hirsch."

GEORGE PENN MOVES TO FRANK

George Penn, recently appointed C.P.R. agent at Frank, is well known in the Crow's Nest Pass. He has been agent at Lundbreck for 2 1/2 years, and prior to that was in the employ of the C.P.R. at High River, commencing work there in 1905. Many years ago he was assistant at Coleman under the late T. B. Smith. He is very energetic and quite popular among railroad men. At Frank he succeeds Mr. Murray, who retired recently on superannuation. With Reeve Capt. Ed. Donkin, he should be able to stir up quite a boom in Frank village.

What Railway Coal Orders Mean To Alberta Steam Coal Mines

A man might think his little bit of business doesn't affect the total very much, but if every merchant in these towns patronized trucking companies, and railroad companies found it advisable to transfer their orders elsewhere, then every one without exception would be hunting new jobs and new locations; mine workers would lose hundreds of thousands of dollars in giving up homes which they have worked hard for years to secure.

It Could Happen Here!

This is no exaggerated picture; it could happen here as it has happened elsewhere, and it is suicidal for any merchant to ignore the fact.

STUNNING FALL DRAPERIES
YOU CAN MAKE YOURSELF

Follow Professional Pointers

Handsome draperies—and clever too! With this novel arrangement of valance and cascade you can give a distinguished double-window effect to apart of ordinary windows.

The making is simple. You needn't line these draperies, though for a rich appearance it's best to choose one of the heavier fabrics.

Beautiful and inexpensive are gold rayon damask, apricot satines and for either you could use a brown fringe trimming.

As for the valances and cascades, you turn them out in a jiffy. For each set, cut a rectangular strip of fabric into two triangles as the diagram shows.

Use one triangle for a valance, sewing fringe to the two shorter sides and tacking long edge to valance board. The other triangle is a cascade and you hem the shorter sides, sew fringe to the longest. Then pleat the cascade, baste, press, add tassels and tack to valance board.

So side draperies will trail gracefully, allow a few extra inches at the bottoms. For rich folds, make pinch pleats. Easy with directions!

Our 32-page booklet gives diagrams and directions for making draperies and glass curtains of all types. Tells how to estimate material, cut, sew, finish and hang. Shows making of smart valances, swags, cornices, trimmings.

Play Made Great Hit

"An Englishman's Home" Raised Invasion Issue Thirty Years Ago
Thirty years or so ago, England was showing a keen interest in a mythical invasion of the tight little island. There hadn't been a continental war of importance for 40 years, yet the shadow of Pan-Germanism had already begun to arise.

The fare-up of public feeling and uneasiness, which had been brewing for years because of the Germans' construction of a huge navy and their aggressiveness.

Blended on a play, "An Englishman's Home," written and staged in 1909 by Lt.-Col. Guy du Maurier, a son of the author of "Trilby." A tremendous hit from the start, it soon was being presented by several road companies and provoked columns of discussion in all the leading newspapers.

The scene of the play is in the house of a middle-class Englishman, whose way of life is suddenly broken up by German troops, who had taken advantage of a protracted fog and a labor strike that paralyzed telegraphic service in Great Britain to invade the land.

They made a surprise landing on the coast and pushed inland before anyone was aware of it. The householder shoots one of the invaders and is immediately taken out and executed. Here, by the first writing, the play ended, but as a sop to sentiment, a scene was added in which a motley crew of volunteers capture the invaders.

The furor was immediate because of the question that the play raised. Fuel was added to the fire by the recalling of the elaborate statement by Prime Minister Lloyd George five years before—that the landing of 70,000 or more troops in England by Germany would be impossible.

Lord Roberts took a different position. He held that Germany had transports available to carry 200,000 men and supplies to the shores of England. His point was added that was a sort of "fifth column" at that day, namely, there were in the United Kingdom 80,000 Germans, almost all of them trained soldiers. He demanded conscription.

As a result of the agitation that the play provoked, a large expansion was granted to the navy, and enlistment in the army was greatly increased.

Strange to say, "An Englishman's Home" was also produced in Berlin, where it was hissed off the stage in great disorder because it portrayed a band of volunteers succeeding in defeating German soldiers.

Save Gold Leaf

Hig Victory Monument in Berlin Has Been Scraped
Our special correspondent on the German frontier writes:

Since the recent British raids on Berlin, the authorities have scraped off the gold leaf on the vast winged figure symbolizing Victory on top of the Siegesaule (Victory Column), which commemorates the Prussian defeat of France in 1870, and is now the most conspicuous feature of Hitler's recently constructed "Via Triumphalis," running from east to west through Berlin. The figure has been painted dull yellow instead.

The popular guess, that this was done to recover the gold in order to pay for Germany's food imports, is indignantly rejected by well-informed quarters in Berlin, who declare that this was done to prevent the gilded figure from reflecting moonlight or the gleam of parachute flares, and thus guiding the British bombers down the broad thoroughfare into the heart of the Reich Government quarters and the Reich Chancellery on the Wilhelmstrasse across which it cuts.

Photographic Bomb

Able To Light Up A Five-Mile Area At Night

At conclusion of a preview at Rochester of a new high-powered photographic bomb, Major George W. Goodard, United States Army observer, said, "There have been times when an extra hour of daylight would have changed the history of the world. We have that daylight here!"

A dozen times the photographic bomb burst over Rochester, each time lighting a five-mile area "with the light of day." Each time, too, a synchronized aerial camera snapped the scene from 5,000 feet in the air.

"We must cut down everything at least one-third," said a lecture on economy recently. At the conclusion of his remarks the audience gave two hearty cheers.

Latest types of British fighting planes often fly four miles above earth and can climb beyond five.

Nigerian Warriors Would Like To Take A Whack At Hitler

Bow-and-arrow warriors from Nigeria's eastern provinces want to take a whack at Hitler. A deputation representing 40,000 clansmen of the Aikpo tribe in Ogoja province handed the district commissioner the following resolution: "We agree to give one-sixth of our surplus funds to the King to help in his war with Germany. If the King needs more money we can help him." All we ask is that he beat the Germans pretty soon. And why can't we fight, too?"

Between The Censor And Visits From Jerry, There Is Trouble Enough

Please, Mr. Censor, now that you have failed in so many parts of London can we mention that the building of the New Statesman and Nation is no longer in occupation? It is not destroyed, you know, but the police and firemen and the broken glass and crater co-operate to forbid its use, and we would like to explain this to readers and contributors. Yes, we rescued the Encyclopaedia Britannica and Dictionary of Slang and the office mascot and we have a delightful excuse for not replying to a lot of tiresome letters. . . . Can't we mention that? Not at present? You are consulting the Air Ministry and will let me know? The Daily Herald also suffers from broken windows and the Evening Standard's caught it hot? Thank you.

Call For Sacrifice

Nation's Fuel Power Must Be Directed Towards War Effort

Our duty at this hour is to keep cool heads and steady hearts. What is called for is humility over past errors, determination to profit by them, ardent faith in the future. No sense now, nor gain, in recriminations, and nothing but loss in divisions or in doubts. This is a day for high courage for steadfastness, for confidence. It is an hour for reconstruction, for resolve that from this day onward all that we can give or do, whether in great ways or small, must be given and done to the limit. The call is for discipline, for sacrifice, for forego of leisure and comforts. The nation's full power must be harnessed to war effort; all our resources, material, intellectual and spiritual; all that we can give in toil and sweat.—Ottawa Journal.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

OCTOBER 27
CHRISTIAN MOTIVES FOR ABSTINENCE

Golden text: For the kingdom of God is not eating and drinking, but righteousness and peace and joy in the Holy Spirit. Romans 14:17.
Lessons: Luke 1:13-16; 2:40; 4:6, 21, 25, 43-45.
Devotional reading: John 16:7-11.

Explanations and Comments

An Example of Total Abstinence, Luke 1:13-16. Last week we studied the message of John the Baptist, and to-day for our temperance lesson on International Temperance Sunday, we turn back to Luke's account of the announcement of John's coming birth made to his father, Zacharias the priest. It was while Zacharias was burning incense in the temple at Jerusalem and the people were praying without, that he became troubled and fearful. "Fear not," were the words which he heard, and then came the promise that because his application had been heard he should have a son, John, who would bring joy and gladness not only to him but to many, for he would be truly great—great in the sight of the Lord.

The Kingdom of God is not Eating and Drinking, but Righteousness and Peace and Joy in the Holy Spirit, Luke 14:17. In the temptation in the wilderness Jesus had been long without food, and when he was hungry the devil said unto him, "If thou art the Son of God, command this stone that it become bread." Jesus met the temptation with the words, "It is written, Man shall not live by bread alone, but," in the fuller wording of Matthew, "by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God, for he sent them manna: so I, who am hungry, may be fed: if it is his will, my part is to trust to his providence, not to my own."

The Kind of Tree Determines the Kind of Fruit, Luke 6:43-45. As it is with trees, so it is with people. The kind of fruit that each bears, the kind of deeds he does, is determined by his character, life being the out-warding of the spirit that is within. Dr. Moffatt's translation of the 45th verse of the chapter is very clear: "The good man produces good from the good stored in his heart, and the evil man from his evil; for a man's mouth utters what the heart is full of. Life should be lived with high purpose, actuated by noble ideals, kept pure from the things that are best and highest."

1941 Census

Most Detailed Census Ever To Be Taken In Canada

There will be nothing approximate about the 1941 Canadian census which starts next June 2.

A. J. Pelletier, chief of the census board, Dominion bureau of statistics, described it as "the most detailed census ever to be taken in Canada."

Some 16,000 enumerators, with the aid of 18,000 maps, outlining the various districts to which they are assigned, will conduct it. These men will work on a "commission basis," receiving so much per person, house and so on.

Hitler now hints that the invasion will be delayed until next spring. England is much prettier then, of course, especially New in lilac time, but the Nazis are never likely to see it.

A few grains of rice placed in a vase and shaken vigorously with a little water will remove the unsightly sediment left by cut flowers.

IT COULD HAVE BEEN AVOIDED

In many railway crossing accidents it is never learned what impelled the driver of a car to make that fatal dash in front of a speeding locomotive. Sometimes it is thought that he just tried to "beat the gun." Sometimes inattention is responsible, or the brief stop to look and listen that might have saved a life or lives. The impending accident pictured above in these series of warning illustrations is an actual one, however, and the cause was clear. Two young people were sighted by the horrified engineer, obviously interested only in each other. They must have known the crossing was there, for the car was moving along the road but they failed to look for the train. Rounding a curve, the engine struck the car with emergency brakes set, but demolished the automobile and killed both occupants. If ever a fatal accident could have been avoided with sane practice this one could have been.

Health LEAGUE of CANADA
presents
TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST
by DR. J. W. S. McCULLOUGH
HEALTH AND EFFICIENCY

That most of the bread consumed in Canadian cities is capable of considerable improvement in the interests of war-time health and efficiency, is indicated by an article appearing in the current issue of the Canadian Public Health Journal over the signature of Dr. W. C. McHenry, Ph.D., of the University of Toronto.

It is, of course, generally known that whole-wheat bread is of greater nutritional value than white bread, but the fact has not made the darker colored loaf popular. Dr. McHenry therefore proposes that the value of white flour be raised by adding wheat germ or yeast of high vitamin content. This can be done without affecting the color of the resultant loaf, he declares.

The special nutritive quality of whole wheat bread lies in the fact that it contains vitamin and mineral contents which, to a very large extent, are removed by modern milling processes. Vitamin B complex, which is absolutely essential to health is reduced to about one third of its original quantity in the course of milling, for instance.

A survey of 100 families of low incomes in Toronto, he says, reveals that even the best fed members fall far below the satisfactory margin in their daily intake of Vitamin B1, a condition which he finds reason to believe is general.

Dr. McHenry repeats that the intake of Vitamin B1 would be increased if people ate whole wheat bread, but since they decline to do so other methods must be found, and experiments have shown that bread containing five per cent. wheat germ has noticeable effect on growth and nutrition.

The Park Lane Mystery

But Harlow had no other objective than the accumulation of money. He had shown a vicarious interest in the public when he had presented his model police station to the country; he had certainly subscribed liberally to hospital appeals; but none of these gifts belonged to a system of charity or public spirit. He was a man without social gifts—the joys or sufferings of his fellows struck no sympathetic chord in his nature. If he gave, he gave cold bloodedly, and yet without ostentation.

True, he had offered to build, on the highest point of the Chiltern Hills, an exact replica of the Parthenon as a national war memorial, but the offer had been rejected because of the inaccessibility of the chosen spot. There was a certain freakishness in his projects, and Jim suspected that they were not wholly disinterested. The man baffled him; he could get no thread that would lead him to the soul and the mind behind those cold blue eyes.

For six hours that night he sat by the bedside of the unconscious Foreign Minister. What strange story could he tell? Jim wondered. How came he to be perambulating the streets in the guise of a drunken mountebank, whose wanderings were to end in a vulgar brawl with a policeman and the cheerless lodging of a prison cell? Had he some secret weakness which Harlow had learnt and exploited? Did he live a double life? Jim thought, only to reject the thought. Sir Joseph's life was more or less an open book; his movements for years past could be traced day by day from the information supplied by the diaries of his secretary, from the knowledge of his own colleagues.

While he kept his vigil he made another attempt to decipher the writing on the card, but he got no further. Jim was taking turn and turn about with Inspector Wilton of Ebury street in watching beside the bedside. The doctor had said that at any moment the Minister might recover consciousness, and though he took the gravest view of the ultimate result of the drugging, his prognosis did not exclude the chance of a complete recovery. It was at a quarter after 3 in the morning that the sick man, who had been tossing from side to side, muttering disjointed words which had no meaning to the listener, turned upon his back and, opening his eyes blinked round the dimly lighted room. Jim, who had been studying the card in the light of a shaded lamp put the pasteboard into his pocket and came to the side of the bed.

Sir Joseph looked at him wonderingly, his wide brows knit in an effort of memory.

"Hullo!" he said faintly. "What happened? ... Did the car smash up?"

"Nothing serious has happened, Sir Joseph," said Jim gently.

Again the wondering eyes wandered around the bare walls of the room, and then they fell upon a temperature chart hanging against the wall.

"This is a hospital, isn't it?"

"A nursing home," said Jim. There was a long silence before the sick man spoke.

"My head aches infernally. Can you give me a drink, or isn't that allowed?"

Jim poured out a glass of water and, supporting the shoulders of the Minister, put the glass to his lips. He drank the contents greedily and sank back with a sigh upon the pillow.

"I suppose I am a little light-headed, but I could swear that your name was Carlton," he said.

"That is my name, sir," said Jim, and the Minister pondered this for a little time.

"Anything broken?" he asked. "It was the car, I suppose? I told that stupid chauffeur of mine to be careful. The road was like glass."

He moved first one leg and then the other gingerly, and then he asked:

"Nothing is broken at all, Sir Joseph," said Jim. "You have had a little shock."

He had already rung for the doctor, who was sleeping in a room below.

"Shock, eh? ... I don't remember. ... And Harlow?" His eyebrows lowered again. "A decent fellow but rather overdone. I went to his house to-night, didn't I ... those Macedonian people? Yes, yes, I remember. How long ago was it?"

Jim would not tell him that the visit to Harlow's had happened days before.

"Yes, yes, I remember now. Where did I go after that? ... to the House, I suppose? My mind is like a whirling ball of wool!"

The doctor came in, a dressing gown over his pajamas, and the Minister's mind was sufficiently clear to guess his profession.

"I'm all in, doctor. What was it, a stroke?"

"No, Sir Joseph," said the doctor. He was feeling his patient's pulse, and seemed satisfied.

"Sir Joseph thinks he might have been in a car collision," suggested Jim, with a significant glance at the doctor.

The man was terribly weak, but the brightness of his intellect was undimmed.

"What is the matter with me?" he asked, irritably, as the medical man put the stethoscope to his heart.

"I'm wondering whether you have ever taken drugs in your life?"

"Drugs!" snorted the old man. "Good God! what a question! I don't even take medicine! When I feel queer, I go to my osteopath and he puts me right."

The doctor grinned, as all properly constituted doctors grin when an osteopath is mentioned, for the medical profession is the most conservative and the most suspicious of any.

"Then I shan't give you drugs?" He had a nimble turn of mind to cover up an awkward question.

"Your heart is good and your pulse is good. And all you want now is a little sleep."

"And a little food," growled Sir Joseph. "I am as hungry as a starved weasel!"

They brought him some chicken broth, hot and strong, and in half an hour he had fallen into a gentle sleep. The doctor beckoned Jim outside the room.

"I think it is safe for you to leave him," he said. "He is making a better recovery than I dreamed was possible. I suppose he said nothing about his adventures?"

"Nothing," said Jim, and the man of medicine realized that, even if Sir Joseph had explained the strange circumstances of his arrest and appearance at the police court, it was very unlikely that he would be told.

Early the next morning Jim called at Downing Street and saw the Prime Minister.

"He is under the impression that he was in a motorcar accident after leaving Park Lane. He remembers nothing about the speech in the House; the doctor will not allow him to be told until he is strong again. I have very grave doubts on one point, sir, and that I want to clear up, and to clear it up, it may be necessary that I go outside the law."

"I don't care very much where you go," said the Prime Minister; "but we must have the truth. Until the facts are known, not only Sir Joseph, but the whole Cabinet, is under a cloud. I will give instructions that you are to have carte blanche, and I will support you in any action you may take."

With this confident assurance Jim went on to Scotland Yard to prove the truth of a theory which had slowly evolved in the dark hours of the night—a theory so fantastic that he could hardly bring himself to its serious contemplation.

CHAPTER XXII

Four hundred and fifteen cablegrams were put on the wire in one morning and they were all framed in identical terms:

"Permit by cable through Lombard Bank Carr Street Branch all profits taken in Rata transaction 17 to recipient of this instruction. Acknowledge. Rata."

This message was dispatched at 3 o'clock in the morning from the G. P. O.

The Foreign Department manager of the Lombard Bank was an old friend of Mr. Ellenbury, and had done business with him before. Mr. Ellenbury drove to the bank the following afternoon and saw the head of the Foreign Department.

"I am expecting some very extensive cable remittances through the Lombard," he said, "and I shall want cash."

The sour-looking manager looked even more sour.

"Rata's, I suppose? I'm surprised that you are mixed up with these people, Mr. Ellenbury. I don't think you can know what folks are saying in the city."

He was a friend and was frank. Mr. Ellenbury listened meekly.

"One cannot pick and choose," he said. "The war made a great deal of difference to me; I must live."

The war is an unending argument to explain changed conditions and for adaptable standards of morality. The manager accepted the other's viewpoint with reservations.

"How much has Harlow made out of this swindle," he asked, again exercising the privilege of friendship.

"Some day I will tell you," said the lawyer cryptically. "The point is, I expect very large sums."

"Sterling or what?"

"Any currency that is stable," said Mr. Ellenbury.

That evening came the first advice—from Johannesburg. The sum omitted was not colossal, but it was large. New Orleans arrived in the night and was delivered to Mr. Ellenbury with Chicago, New York, Toronto and Sydney. The cable advices accumulated; Mr. Ellenbury took no steps to draw the money that was piling up at the Lombard Bank until the second day.

The Average Young Soldiers

Passage In One Letter Sum Them Up Fairly Well

It is our privilege to read some of the letters that soldiers write to their folks here at home, to mothers and sisters and friends.

And we sense the compliment when we are entrusted with missives in which there are intimate family passages, which, of course, we do not reproduce.

We are not, we think, betraying a confidence if, without the reference by which you might identify the writer, we reproduce just a few words from one such a passage in one such a letter.

Here it is—... and may God watch over you and all at home until ... I return."

We knew this young chap slightly before he went away. We knew him to be a good clean chap, one who lived decently and honorably, and one who didn't parade himself or his thoughts.

The average young chap as we would want the average young chap to be.

Well, he's been over there quite a while now. And his "sign-off" to his letter is by no means exceptional.

Do we need to make a sermon of this? We hardly think so. We'll just ask you to read those few words from the private message of his letter. You can figure it out for yourself.—Kirkland Lake Northern News.

Has Had Experience

And Bellhop Thinks Women Stinger With Tips Than Men

The female of the species is more stinging than the male, according to Bob Carlew, of Montreal. Bob should be somewhat of an authority, for during the past 15 years he has been pageboy, bellhop, and bell captain in some of the largest hotels in Canada.

"Yep," he announced "the hardest work and the smallest tips a bellhop can get will be handed out by women in nine cases out of every ten, and at the top of the ladder for tightfistedness stands the debutante."

"Take the average man," Bob explained. "He may only hand out a dime or a quarter for each call, but he does it regularly."

The average woman checks into a hotel, she'll tip the boy who carries up her bags—usually a dime, then, when she leaves, she'll tip the lad who carries them out. Meanwhile, during her stay, you can run your feet down to the ankle bone and about all you'll ever get is a sweet smile.

"This," he added, "is the showgirl. Ninety per cent. of them don't have much money, but it is mighty seldom you get one who expects anything for nothing. Its their attitude more than the cash involved, which makes the boys willing to do things for them on the double."

Counting Their Chickens

Virginia Gayda, Fascist editorial spokesman, says that Hitler and Mussolini are so certain of victory they can now begin drafting "the great constructive lines of their new European and African edifice."

Thousands Of Blankets

Sixty-two thousand blankets have been sent to London to aid persons made homeless by German air raids, Canadian Red Cross headquarters at Toronto announced.

Freeze-up marks the beginning of the season when animals suffer most from lack of iodine. Feeding potassium iodide crystals during the winter helps to avoid trouble.

War Prisoner Costumes

Garments Have Been Designed To Attract Notice Of Public

The Canadian public is either becoming glibly or extremely liberal in its views on wearing apparel.

When a costume for war prisoners was designed, every effort was made to turn out a garment that could be spotted for city blocks by the naked eye.

The costumes were made of black or blue denim with a large circle of scarlet on the back of the smock and a four-inch stripe down the outer side of the right trouser leg.

Yet, in spite of this glaring color combination on their clothing, escaped prisoners have on several occasions been given lifts by obliging motorists.

One recaptured prisoner said he had been deeply impressed by the generosity and assistance of the Canadian public while attempting his flight from an internment camp.

Minico and Burlington he was given three rides—and his third benefactor even offered him a job.

The stripe on his trouser leg was covered by a pair of overalls, but the circle on his back stood out like a beacon light.

Internment authorities now suggest that any one seeing a man wearing blue or black clothing with a red circle or stripe should immediately notify the police. It is also advised that motorists should ask to see registration cards before giving hitchhikers a lift, particularly after announcement of an escape has been made.

Prefers His Own Job

War Has Taught Man His Wife Has Hardest Work

It took a war to do this. In a southeast English coast town where the sirens sound several times daily, a young couple vary the daily routine by exchanging jobs one day a week.

The husband doesn't mind doing the housekeeping and cooking and looking after the two children, "but I should not like to exchange jobs permanently—it's too much like work."

The wife attends to some of her husband's typing and deals with many of his routine jobs.

In May, 1939, she went to Vancouver, bought a horse and set out to study Canada. Her mount, Timothy, carried her about 2,500 miles.

She was forced to leave him when his legs were about to give out, Jonty replaced him and brought her to her destination.

written to a local lady. The writer resides at Rochdale, Lancashire.

"We are not short of anything except sometimes sleep but we are getting accustomed to that and are consoled that such sleepless night brings us nearer to victory, and it will be victory, no matter how long it takes.

If I could, I would not live in other times, these are great days and there are better ones ahead.
We are all cheerful, working eagerly to help in this great cause, and no matter how long and how hard the task may be, we will never give in, even if we have to rebuild again, again and again."

Here is another from Hendon, North West London, addressed to another Coleman lady.

"I had to leave off writing to take up our positions in the shelter for the night. Adolf's night raiders came between 8 p.m. and 6 a.m.
This past week we have slept, or I should say tried to sleep, in our clothes. Some of our work mates haven't been undressed for four weeks. He (Adolf) is not satisfied with staying all night, but comes over as many as seven times in a day, and my, don't our boys give him it then?"

In conclusion the writer states:

"Well, I don't think there's much more I can say, only that we feel sure that old Winston will lead us through to victory."

Last week Wm. White received from Newcastle, England, a piece of anti-aircraft shell which had brought down a Nazi plane.

A piece of aluminum from a Nazi plane brought down in England was received this week by Mrs. Ernie Beart from her son-in-law, Ernest Kennedy, now stationed with the Canadian forces in Britain.

Mrs. Lewis Brown brought into The Journal office this week a piece of silk cord which had been taken from a land mine laid down by a

Nazi plane via parachute. This mine had drifted near the coast line where there was an airplane factory. The mine had been laid during the night.
